Trusting that every girl, who keeps this book, realizing how much her own college has been to her, may be as loyal and as devoted to it as I am to mine, and that each in her innermost heart, where the image of that college ever dwells, may be certain — as I am — that her own is the best, I gratefully and affectionately dedicate this book to my college home, the place where so many happy and profitable days of my student life were spent, Smith College.

The Ideal Co-ed

The ideal co-ed is a thing of books,
A creature of brain entirely;
With stooping shoulders and studious looks,
She digs all day and half the night;
People say she is wondrous bright,
But her figure's an awful sight!
Her thoughts are deep in the classic past,
She only thinks of A. B. at last;
She has fled this world and its masculine charms,
And a refuge found in Minerva's arms.

Now, the kind of co-ed that I describe
Is a co-ed seen very rarely;
The real co-ed's a thing of grace,
With dainty figure and winsome face;
She walks and rides, and she cuts, Mon Dieu!
But every professor lets her through;
For her each year is a round of joy,
A. B. means nothing if not "A Boy,"
And you and I must yield to her charms,
And take the place of Minerva's arms.

Fair Smith

Fair Smith, our praise to thee we render,
O dearest college halls,
Bright hours that live in memory tender
Are winged within thy walls.
O'er thy walks the elms are bowing,
Alma Mater.
Winds 'mid branches softly blowing,
Ivy round thy towers growing,
Alma Mater.

Though time may prove the pleasure fleeting,
No hour is sped in vain.
True hearts behold the future meeting;
Our friendship cannot wane.
Of thy care forgetful never,
Alma Mater,
Bound by ties that naught can sever,
Still to thee returning ever,
Alma Mater.

And while the hills with purple shadows
Eternal vigil keep,
Above the happy river meadows
In golden haze asleep,
May thy children thee addressing,
Alma Mater,
Still with grateful praise unceasing,
Speak in loyal hearts thy blessing,
Alma Mater.

To the Greater University

I hear the break of a sea of seas
  And the thud of a league-long crest;
I hear the shock of the King of Seas
  On the wall of the mighty West.

I see the plumes of forests kings
  From Sierra's snow to plain;
God's amphitheatre tier on tier,
  Where Pine and Redwood reign.

What sapphire sky and purple mist,
  No Italy so blest;
O vision of Hesperides!
  Land of the sun-down West!

What inland seas of golden grain,
  What vine and orange tree,
What flower-set banks and poppy hosts,
  What summer reverie!

What carnival of sunny hours,
  And lull of drowsy noon,
An Indian summer's dream is mine
  In the golden afternoon.

The sunset lights a Queen of Bays—
  A thousand flags are flaunting;
The world's afloat! and East and West
  Salute with colors vaunting.

Oh, what a royal red is where
  Yon western sea lies dreaming!
And through the Golden Gate flung wide
  The sun-down light is streaming.

The sun's last sheaves are caught in the leaves
  Where Oak and Pine enfold,
And mile-long level spears of light
  Break to a dust of gold.

What spires and column-crests are those
  The sunset light hath kissed?
What temple-top is that whose base
  Is veiled in violet mist?

What city that—all wrought in white,
  What halls are those I see?
'Tis reincarnate Athens built
  By Balboa's western sea!

Oh, what a reach of colonnade
  And domes to prop the sky,
And porches welcoming the world
  To truth that cannot die!

Thy steeples climb to Heaven's height,
  To lift mine hope as far;
Thy finger-spire doth point the way
  To yonder God-built star!

Wellesley in Autumn

In yellow and in saffron it is dressed,
Changing by imperceptible degrees
To tawny red and russet in the trees,
And brown of fallen leaves upon the breast
Of all the earth.

A tumbling wind careens across the grass,
Chasing the dead leaves here and there in glee;
Or else, in empty whirling columns free,
Forming them in one mad, round, dancing mass
With savage mirth.

The twilight breathes a silent, waiting drowse;
A few leaves curve down gently here and there,
In the clear coolness of the evening air,
From the great oaks with massive, up-flung bows
And mighty girth.

Each night, though winter has not yet begun,
Drives the sharp frost still farther in the ground;
The grass with thicker white each morn is found—
And this soft covering, melting at the sun,
Is snow at birth.

The Tastes of Yesterday

Wrote a poet long ago—
In the classic age, you know—
Verses dignified and fine,
Telling "how we Romans dine."

Boars and peacocks, shell-fish, too,
All were dainties, while a stew
Made of oil and bitter brine
Was as welcome as their wine.

Vainly often do we seek
English words for dishes Greek,
While we say: "What dreadful food
Did the Romans think was good!"

If some poet living now,
Knowing what we eat and how,
Should commit it all to rhyme
To the girls of after time,

Mention "Deacon Porter's hat,"
"Freshman's tears," and add to that
Praises of those dainties three,
"Wiggle," "Mud" and "Mystery."

Should he sing in such a strain
Future maids might seek in vain
For the meaning, while they'd say,
"Strange—the tastes of yesterday!"

Here's to the Freshman, verdant and green,
Here's to the Sophomore, naughty,
Here's to the Junior, fair, youthful queen,
And here's to the Senior, so haughty.
Toast with your glasses,
Drink to the lasses,
We'll warrant each proves a delight to her classes.

Ballade of the Alumna

How sadly in these latter days,
In search of memories bitter-sweet,
We tread the once accustomed ways
With step grown slow and lagging feet,—
Timed to the pulse's slower beat,—
And climb the stair and reach the floor,
To find — alas! how time is fleet!
Another's name is on the door!

We timid knock, and beg to gaze
On all once ours — are shown a seat,
O irony! In sad amaze
We marvel that it looks so neat,
Recalling how we used to meet
At gruesome hours in days of yore,—
Hours that fate can ne'er repeat:
Another's name is on the door.

Our ready chaff, our wordy frays,
Conviction backed by young conceit,
Have left no echoes; nothing stays
To mark how once we "led the street";
But others come with youthful heat,
Nor reck of those who came before,
And play their part — their years complete;—
Another's name is on the door.

Envoy

Freshmen our age with reverence greet,
And warning take though grievèd sore,
No words delay, no prayers entreat, —
Another's name is on the door.

Edith Child, Bryn Mawr Lantern.
